

PRESIDENT RESTS ON TRAIN BOUND FOR CALIFORNIA

Special on Longest Leg of Western Tour, From Portland to San Francisco.

NO STOPS ARE SCHEDULED

Itinerary Calls for P's Arrival in San Francisco Wednesday Morning; Possibility Mr. Wilson May Make Other Speeches Than Scheduled One

By Associated Press.
ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL HEADING SOUTHWARD FOR SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 16.—President Wilson today begins a six-day visit to California in the interests of the peace treaty.
On the longest leg of his western tour, his train had no stops scheduled during the entire day and the President improved the opportunity to rest from his arduous speech-making campaign in the northwest. He left Portland, Oregon, last night and will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow morning, completing the first half of his 10,000-mile swing around the circuit.
Although Mr. Wilson had only one address a day on his schedule for the remaining four days of the week, it is considered likely that he may break his rule against impromptu speeches from the rear platform of his car and at public luncheons. He did break it yesterday at Portland, making a short address at a luncheon there and he has been asked to speak at a number of similar functions he will attend in San Francisco, San Diego and Los Angeles. It was said today, however, that he had made no promise to deviate from his official schedule.

BANANAS TOO HIGH

Dealers Organize to Protect "Poor Man's Fruit."

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The banana is also numbered among the victims of price manipulation, according to the wholesale banana dealers of New York who organized today with the express purpose of restoring the South American product to its proper position as "the poor man's fruit."
"Certain fruit production companies operating their own steamship lines," are the target against which the Banana Dealers association will lay their aim.
The dealers' charge that only a small portion of the cargoes of the fruit brought here are unloaded at one time on the local market, the remainder either being held in storage or carried to other cities. This practice, it was claimed, not only puts up the price here but also in other markets which are governed by the New York quotations. A special committee was appointed to lay the charges of the dealers before Federal Food Controller Williams.

JOHNSON ABSENT

Head of American League Not Expected to Attend Meeting.

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—President B. D. Johnson of the American League was not expected to attend the meeting of the majority members of the League board of directors here today.
The meeting was called by Col. Jacob Ruppert of the New York club, Charles A. Comiskey, of Chicago, and Harry Frazee, of Boston, constituting a majority of the board of directors and it was expected the chief business at the session would be a discussion of the case of Carl Mays, New York pitcher acquired by New York from Boston. President Johnson disapproved of the transfer of Mays and ordered his suspension. The supreme court of New York, however, granted a temporary injunction in favor of the New York club and Mays continued to play ball.

DUEL REPORT DENIED

Authorities Say Army Officers Did Not Meet on Palisades.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Reports of a duel between two Army officers above the Palisades last night were denied today by Army authorities who reported that the rumor "probably grew out of the wounding of Captain J. J. D. Cobb of Company L, 16th Infantry, First Division, by a stray bullet."
Captain Cobb, who was riding in an automobile from Camp Merrill to the Edgewater ferry with several other officers, was only slightly hurt, it was said. The bullet is believed to have been fired by a hunter in the woods nearby.

WILSON NOT TOLD OF ACCIDENT UNTIL AFTER HE ATTENDED LUNCHEON

President Orders Everything Possible Done For Injured Newspapermen.

Special to The Courier.
PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 16.—Robert T. Small, the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, who was slightly injured in an automobile collision here yesterday, resumed his journey with President Wilson's party late last night. Stanley Reynolds, of the Baltimore Sun staff, whose arm was broken, remained here for medical treatment.
Definite funeral arrangements for Ben S. Allen, of the Cleveland, O. Plain Dealer, who was killed in the collision, were not announced. His associates, however, said his body probably would be sent East.
President Wilson and members of his party did not learn of the accident until they returned to Portland.
The President was not told before the luncheon at which he spoke that death had resulted. He instructed Admiral Grayson to see that everything for the comfort and welfare of the men was done immediately.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 16.—An automobile containing members of the party accompanying President Wilson on a scenic trip over the Columbia highway, near here, shortly after noon yesterday overturned, killing two men and injuring three. It was the first accident of a serious nature to occur during the President's tour of the country.

The dead are: Ben E. Allen, member of the Presidential party and Washington correspondent for the Cleveland Plain Dealer; James R. Patterson, Portland, Ore., driver of the automobile.
The injured are: Stanley Reynolds, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun; Robert T. Small, Washington correspondent for the Public Ledger, Philadelphia, and former superintendent of the southern division of the Associated Press; Arthur D. Sullivan, Portland, Ore., news writer.
Allen and Patterson were killed outright when the heavy automobile, being turned aside to escape another automobile in its path, overturned, pinning them underneath. The car righted itself after turning over. Small Reynolds and Sullivan, who was on the upper side, was thrown clear and escaped with painful bruises and lacerations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Officials here in the absence of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing will not comment on the report that the United States has asked Japan to set a definite date for the return of Kia Chau to China. Balloting Expected to Take a Spurt During the Late Afternoon and Evening.

The keen interest that has been manifested in the party contests for county and city offices was not apparent on the surface in the city during the morning and early afternoon. The polling places were quiet in practically every ward, even the usual crowds of "workers" and "watchers" being missing.
Up to noon about one-fifth of the registered voters in the city had been polled. At 12:30 approximately 400 voters had been cast in all the wards. There will be brisker voting in the early evening when men at work in the various industries of the city cast their ballots. Indications, however, were that nothing near the registered strength would vote.
At 10 o'clock 105 votes had been cast in the First ward, 79 in the Second, 127 in the Third, 109 in the Fourth, 158 in the Fifth, 119 in the Sixth and 175 in the Seventh.

RECORD-BREAKING VOTE INDICATION IN ALLEGHENY.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Early indications were that a record breaking vote would be cast in Allegheny county today. Brisk voting was reported throughout the city. Casual interest in the election will make for a record vote, it is believed. A hot contest has been waged between rival factions of the Republican party for city and county nominations. One faction is led by Max G. Leslie and the other is called the anti-Leslie force.

NEW POWER PLANT

Of West Penn Power Company Attracting Attention of Engineers.

A project in engineering economy watched by experts throughout the country is that of the new West Penn Power company $5,000,000 power plant under construction at Springdale, on the Allegheny river about 12 miles north of Pittsburgh.

A vertical shaft from the ground level to the seven-foot vein of coal underlying the bed of the Allegheny river has been sunk to a depth of 150 feet, preparatory to tunneling under the river through the Freeport vein of coal. The purpose of this tunnel is to provide an underground and under-river means of conveying coal from a tract to be developed on the south bank of the river. Rights of this character were conferred by an act passed at the last session of the General Assembly.

Confederates have been built in the river to provide for the water supply system. When the coffers are completed, studies will be prepared by which the water will be conducted to the boiler plant capable of developing 16,000 horsepower. The ordinary consumption of water of these boilers will be 50,000 gallons a minute. The plant is expected to be in complete operation next spring.

By Associated Press.

JOHN P. BRENNEN, NESTOR OF COKE INDUSTRY, DIES

Ill With Hay Fever, He Improves, Suffers Sudden Relapse and Succumbs.

HAD AMASSED A FORTUNE

Activities in the Coke Trade Proved Profitable, Though No Estimate of His Wealth Is Available; Retired From Active Business This Year.

Seized with an attack of heart trouble attending an asthmatic affection, John P. Brennen, long known as the nestor of the coke industry in the Connellsville region and until his retirement early in the present year a prominent figure in the industry, died suddenly this morning at 2:30 o'clock at his home in Broadway, Scottdale.
For a long time Mr. Brennen had been a sufferer from asthma. Several weeks ago he was taken ill with hay fever and for several days was confined to his bed. He had so far recovered from this indisposition, however, to be able to come down stairs and eat dinner with his family Sunday. Yesterday he was out on the porch and today he planned to go to the polls to cast his vote in the primary election.

Last evening he suffered one of the not unusual smothering spells which accompany asthma. He recovered from that but about 1 o'clock he was again stricken and grew rapidly worse until the end came in less than two hours. He was 62 years of age.
Mr. Brennen amassed a fortune in the coal and coke business, but no estimate of his wealth was obtainable today.

On May 17, last, Mr. Brennen was given a testimonial of the esteem in which he was held by employees of the Thompson-Connellsville Coke company from which he had just retired, when a party of plant and store executives assembled at his home at Scottdale and presented him with a fine gold watch and chain. Every employee of the company contributed to the purchase of the gift.

John Peter Brennen was born in South Side, Pittsburgh, March 23, 1857, a son of John and Theres Brennen, both now dead. His coming to Scottdale, with the life of which he had been actively identified, dates back to 49 years ago.

The deceased operator is survived by six children. They are George K. Brennen, a mining engineer, Brownsville; Miss Madeline Brennen, Miss Theres Brennen, at home; William J. Brennen, a student at Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh; and Misses Virginia and Helen Brennen, students at Mount de Chantal academy, Wheeling, W. Va. Brothers and sisters surviving are Attorney William J. Brennen, Frank P. Brennen, Miss Mary Brennen, Mrs. J. O. Campbell, Mrs. T. V. Wise and Mrs. J. G. Vilsack, Pittsburgh; Sister M. de Paul, Providence hospital, Beaver Falls; and Sister M. Berchmans of the Visitation Order, Mount de Chantal, Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. Brennen was a member of St. John the Baptist Catholic church. The arrangements for the funeral had not been completed this afternoon.

NEGRO ACQUITTED BUT MUST PAY COSTS FOR HAVING BIG KNIFE IN HIS POSSESSION

Court Initiated Into Mysteries of "African Golf" in Local Case.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 15.—The court was yesterday introduced to the intricacies of "African golf" in the trial of George Jackson, negro, of Connellsville, held before Judge E. H. Reppert on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. One of the several of the unique features of the trial was the absence of the defendant. Attorney John Duggan, Jr., counsel for Jackson, assumed responsibility for Jackson's absence explaining to the jury that he had forgotten to notify his client of the day of his trial.

Commonwealth testimony presented by Connellsville policemen was to the effect that Jackson held some little reputation as a "crap shooter." When the court inquired as to the meaning of the term, Mr. Duggan replied "African golf" or "rollin' de bones." Defense counsel drew from the policeman the admission that the negro had never been implicated in any shooting or cutting scrapes, but they maintained that he was a "bad nigger."

There was never a shorter argument in criminal court than the one made by Assistant District Attorney H. George May in asking for Jackson's conviction.
"Gentlemen of the jury," he said, "picking up the knife in evidence, one with a very long blade, 'here is the knife carried by what is termed a 'bad nigger.'"
With that statement he retired to the counsel table. Mr. Duggan asked that a verdict of not guilty be returned but that Jackson should pay the costs for carrying such a knife. The jury complied with his wishes.

Lawrence Patterson, found guilty of stealing two Liberty bonds from Miss Nellie Evans of South Connellsville, with whom he boarded, was recommended to the mercy of the court.

An alibi supported by the accused's wife and two children proved an effective defense against a charge of criminal assault in the case of Paul Sholar, prosecuted by James Groover in behalf of his daughter, Goldie. The man claimed that at the time of the alleged assault he was at home with his family. He was acquitted after the jury had been out two hours.

Frank Miller was convicted on a charge of breaking into the home of Charles Stewart in German township.

TREATY FIGHT ON

Democrats Predict Enough Votes to Defeat All Amendments.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Consideration of the German peace treaty in open session was resumed today by the Senate. Following a long prepared address by Senator Sherman, Republican, Illinois, attacking President Wilson and the League of Nations the plan was to postpone action on the first amendment until Monday. Democratic leaders conferred on the amendments and reservations and stated privately they expected an almost solid Democratic vote against all of them and enough Republican votes to defeat them.
The Democrats suggested that a deadlock might result on the League of Nations which might have to be settled by negotiation.

BUILDING BOOM AT POPLAR GROVE; SIX FINE NEW HOMES GOING UP; OTHERS PLANNED

Demand for Lots in This Growing Suburb in Line With Its Development; Movement on Foot to Have Blake Avenue and Georgia Street Paved.

Poplar Grove, the growing village to the north of Connellsville along the Mount Pleasant road, is in the midst of a building boom. Six handsome residences, two of them brick veneer, are in course of construction while others are contemplated for next spring. The demand for lots in the suburb also bodes well for the near future in the line of its development.

The largest and perhaps most expensive undertaking is that of S. W. Metz, member of the firm of DeWitt & Metz, who is erecting a 10-room brick veneer residence in Pittsburgh street near the Evangelical church. Mr. Metz has three lots and the home will be a beautiful one. Tapestry brick is being used.
Recently S. M. Kuhlman bought eight lots at the east end of Georgia avenue. On the easternmost lot he has started preparations to erect a five room frame dwelling. The foundation is well under way.

William C. Means who recently sold his home at Poplar Grove to Harry Jennings has a new eight-room one under construction on Georgia avenue. The concrete foundation is completed.

A movement is afoot to have Blake avenue and Georgia street paved. There is also talk of an effort to have the latter street opened through to the Breakneck road between Gilmore's mill and the Wilson place. This would afford a short route from that locality to the mountain.

Poplar Grove is an interesting community where people of taste and discrimination reside. An indication of this is the fact that everybody takes The Courier.

STEEL STRIKE HANGS ON DECISION OF THE PITTSBURG MEETING

Gompers Reported to Favor Postponement; Other Leaders Against It.

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Organizers of 50 to 60 in number engaged in unionizing the steel workers of the Pittsburgh district here today in connection with the proposed strike called for next Monday, according to officers at union headquarters, the meeting was called to discuss plans for the strike, exchange views and make further reports of conditions at steel plants, if they are called for by the national president of the unions interested in the steel industry.

Members of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, made up of representatives of 24 unions, began arriving today for tomorrow's important meeting. This gathering is expected to decide definitely whether the walkout shall be deferred until after the industrial conference at Washington, October 6, as proposed by President Wilson.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is a member of the committee and his word is expected to carry great weight. Mr. Gompers is reported to be in favor of a postponement, if it does not bring injury to the workers. There are leaders here, it is said, who will try to convince the committee that the time for postponement has passed.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, addressed the convention of United Mine Workers of America this morning on the proposed steel strike. He stated he was on his way to Pittsburgh to attend the meeting of the committee called to carry into effect the edict of the 24 unions cooperating in the steel industry that the strike go into effect September 22, but made no other reference to the efforts to have the strike delayed. The proposals of President Wilson and President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to defer action until after the industrial conference at Washington, October 6, were not referred to nor did he ask the convention to take any action.

GOVERNMENT FOOD CAR, DELAYED THREE WEEKS, HAS ARRIVED

Unloading and Transfer to Room in Which It Will Be Sold Deferred Until Tomorrow.

The half car of food shipped by the War Department August 25 from Baltimore, Md. for distribution in Connellsville under the direction of Acting Mayor R. W. Hoover and Antonio Bufano, arrived this morning in the Baltimore and Ohio yard.
Owing to their being election day, transfer of the contents of the car to the room in the Y. M. C. A. building where it is to be exposed for sale was deferred until tomorrow. Announcement will be made by Mr. Hoover when it is ready to go on sale.
Another half car was to be shipped soon, according to a telegram received a few days ago from Congressman S. A. Kendall of Meersdale, through whom the local authorities have been dealing.

John J. Dinos was authorized to grade about 200 cubic yards in Pearl street, Snyderstown, for sidewalks at 60 cents a cubic yard.

William Percy and J. J. Keating presented a petition for a light on Sixth street, West Side, between Meason avenue and the river. The petition, signed by 18 persons, sets forth that trees and poles cut off the illumination from the one light that was placed in that locality.

In the matter of an appeal by Councilman C. W. Utis for $400 additional for the Carnegie Free Library, Clerk A. O. Bixler was instructed to check and see if the amount can be found in any of the funds. The library is unable to meet its obligations, owing to increased costs, it was explained.

Members of council will go to North Eleventh street, West Side, Thursday afternoon to investigate conditions there described in a petition read at the meeting as very unsanitary and requiring immediate attention. Due to the removal of the coal draining into "Pomson" run has been interrupted and filth is accumulating in depressions. The residents of the street demand that a sewer line be laid immediately. Councilman Utis declared the people undoubtedly can compel council to give relief. Councilman Borg admitted conditions are "horrible" in order to lay a sewer line it would be necessary to heavily encase it in concrete in order to prevent breaking by settling of the surface, it was said.

The amendment to the ordinance for paving Francis avenue providing for the issuance of short term bonds for financing the work was adopted. At a previous meeting the contract for the grading and paving was awarded to Malachi Duggan. As soon as the bonds are sold the work will be started.

Fire at Nitro Plant.
SHEPHERD, Ala., Sept. 15.—Fire last night destroyed Warehouse No. 4 of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation at Mussel Shoals, the government nitrate plant, the loss being estimated at $100,000. The major portion of the loss was on electrical equipment.

CITY WITHDRAWS ITS OPPOSITION TO T TYPE RAILS.

West Penn Given Permission to Use Them on East Crawford Avenue.

WILL NOT DO PAVING NOW

Traction Company Explains Inadvisability of Going Ahead With Its Portion of the Bricking If City Does Not Pave the Entire Street.

Opposition to the laying of T rails by the West Penn Railways company in Crawford avenue, between Brimstone corner and Snyder street, was withdrawn in council last night, at which time representatives of the traction company agreed to permanently improve the company's portion of the street when the city is ready to go ahead with the project, but expressed a preference not to proceed with the permanent work at this time. When Crawford avenue is repaved it probably will be a concrete base. The railways company will forward a written agreement to lay its portion of the street on the same kind of base and when this is received it will be at liberty to proceed with the installation of the new type of rails.

At a previous meeting of council objection was raised to the T rail and the railway or grooved rail was favored by Superintendent B. L. Berg of the street department. Since that meeting Mr. Berg received a letter from Fielder Sanders of the city railroad commission of Cleveland saying the T rail had been abandoned and heavy T rails substituted.

General Manager H. L. Mitchell, Chief Engineer J. L. Fritsch and P. A. Meyer, engineer of construction, were before council in behalf of the T rails. Mr. Fritsch explained to council that the T rail has been adopted for reasons of safety and not because of the question of cost as compared with the T rail. The price per pound, he said, is the same while the T rails weigh 95 pounds to the yard and the T rails weigh 115 pounds less. Mr. Fritsch said it is necessary that the worn out glider rails be replaced before winter. A "very serious" accident, he said, is imminent should they remain.

Both Mr. Fritsch and Mr. Mitchell said the railways company will be ready at any time the city wishes to repave the street to lay the T rail line portion in concrete. It would not be wise to make separate bids, Mr. Fritsch said, owing to the impossibility of making a union of the concrete.

Council awarded the contract for furnishing paving block for Chestnut street and Davidson avenue to the Joseph Seiferson Fire Brick company for $30.75 per thousand. About 276,000 will be required, according to the estimate of City Engineer S. A. Just. The Layton Fire Clay company, also bid $22. The question of quality of Seiferson brick being raised again, George B. Freed, representative of the company, said he would guarantee the product to be equal to that of any other company and burned to "22 rather test." Mr. Freed also said defective bricks in Willis road will be replaced. He said he had taken out a "thousand or two" and that if there were that many more they would be made good. He laid the blame for the bricks going to pieces in East Park to defective sand and cushion.

John J. Dinos was authorized to grade about 200 cubic yards in Pearl street, Snyderstown, for sidewalks at 60 cents a cubic yard.

William Percy and J. J. Keating presented a petition for a light on Sixth street, West Side, between Meason avenue and the river. The petition, signed by 18 persons, sets forth that trees and poles cut off the illumination from the one light that was placed in that locality.

PERSONAL

ROY B. KETTER, former captain of Company D, National Guard, now a resident of Wheeling, W. Va., returned yesterday afternoon to that city after a brief visit to Conneltsville, his first in seven years. FORMER RESIDENT SAYS CHESTNUT HILL CEMETERY NEEDS MUCH IMPROVING

The following communication from a former resident who recently visited Chestnut Hill cemetery should arouse the lot owners to action: "On a recent visit to my old home town, I saw the trustees of the Chestnut Hill cemetery have done their best in cleaning up the burial ground, and have spent all their money. Now it is up to the lot owners to come forward and clean up their lot a little further. They should all be raked over, debris placed in the roads so as it can be hauled away or burned. The graves should be cleaned off and sown in grass. Chestnut Hill cemetery can be made a beautiful spot if you do your part. As it is, it is a disgrace to the community. There are but a few who give any thought to the resting places of their loved ones. It seems that the dead are soon forgotten."

"Those who have friends buried should by all means take some pride in keeping their lots free from briars, weeds and brush. Nothing speaks better for a community than a tastefully-kept cemetery. It speaks of a civic pride, of high moral tone. The lot owners in this cemetery certainly owe it to themselves and to the community to get busy at once and demonstrate to the people outside that they are Christians and not of the pagan class who dump their dead in any out of the way place and then forget that they had ever brought them into life. Lot owners should do their part in making Chestnut Hill cemetery a beautiful spot before they are carried out there. I am bound to do my best. On my next visit, I hope to find the cemetery a spot to be proud of."

FIRST U. S. ARMY PLANE DECADE AGO

GENERAL MENOHER'S TELEGRAM TO ORVILLE WRIGHT ON THE NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY.

SWIFT PROGRESS IN FLYING

Wright Brothers Are Considered Developers of the Airplane, but Always Gave Full Credit to Langley, Chanute and Other Pioneers.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington—Major General Menoher, head of the air service, sent a telegram to Orville Wright, the other day, the occasion being the tenth anniversary of the delivery of the first airplane to the government of the United States. The telegram read as follows:

"The congratulations of the air service are extended to you on the tenth anniversary of the delivery of the first airplane to the government of the United States, first in the world to acquire a dynamic aircraft. The air service appreciates to the full the ever-increasing debt owed by mankind to the Wright brothers, whose foresight, indefatigable research and practical application have aided world progress through the invention of a new means of communication."

It was about a decade ago that the United States government, with one of the Wright brothers on the scene, made its preliminary test of airplanes in this city before adopting them for the service of the United States.

To the Wright brothers General Menoher has given the credit for the development of the airplane to the standards of practical use. The Wrights themselves, however, always gave credit to the pioneers in the field.

Work of the Pioneers.

In the Smithsonian Institution in this city is a tablet to the memory of Samuel Pierpont Langley, who completed the first heavier-than-air machine, which actually flew. Not long ago scientists came to Washington from all over the country to pay tribute to the memory of this scientist, Langley, who through the years withstood the flimsy and the jeers of men who called him a crank and worse because he was convinced that one day men would fly. Langley kept at his work, and today he is acknowledged as having been the first man to make a heavier-than-air machine actually fly.

Twenty years ago and more there lived in Chicago an engineer named Octave Chanute, a man of French extraction, who also firmly believed that one day man would fly and would not need lighter-than-air apparatus to enable him to do so. It was Octave Chanute who developed the plane idea. It is known that the Wright brothers, as youths, were pupils of Chanute, and that they witnessed some of his experiments.

So long ago as 1897, I was taken by Octave Chanute into the attic of his house in Superior street, Chicago. There he had samples of every kind of kite known to men and boys of the world. He was studying the biplane kites of China and the monoplane kites of other countries.

In addition to these toys, if they may be so called, he had mounted specimens of several of the long-tailed species of birds of the world, the gull, the albatross and the man-of-war bird. He was studying their structure, their wing spread and relating these things as well as he could to their ability to sustain themselves in the air for long periods without visible motions of the wings.

Octave Chanute's Experiments.

Later on I went to the sand dunes of northern Indiana, on the shores of Lake Michigan, to witness some of the early flying attempts of men under the direction of Octave Chanute. The experimenter and his assistants fitted themselves by means of harness into great-reaching winglike planes similar to those which an airplane uses today. Then they would start down an incline and launch themselves into the air from the hillside against the wind. In this way, and without any motive power it was possible to determine the sustaining strength of the wings and many other things which it was necessary to determine before the problem came of attaching motor power. At that time the present type gasoline engines had not been invented, and proper motive power was one of the chief problems.

Octave Chanute was a pioneer in research; Langley was a pioneer in preliminary accomplishment, and the Wright brothers were the accomplisheers. The entire development of the airplane, has occupied only about a score of years. In Europe Lillenthal and others were experimenting, their work in a measure following the lines of those of Chanute, who was in correspondence with his European colleagues in the experimental field.

It is something for a man to know that he has witnessed the first attempts of Octave Chanute to make progress through the air with planes as wings, and twenty years later to see the perfected combat planes of the army go into the fight over the German lines. It was a long cry from the sand dunes of Indiana to the bluffs of Hatteras-Chateau. There was skepticism on the sand dunes and full belief at Hatteras-Chateau, with twenty years intervening between the twain.

Backache only a Symptom

"It Seems as Though my Back Would Break."

This is a common expression among women, yet they toil on day after day heedless of the significance of this distressing symptom.

Backache is often a warning of some inward trouble that requires attention, and which unless relieved will sooner or later declare itself in more serious ailments.

If it is caused by female derangement Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is what you need. It quickly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women.

For more than thirty years this good old fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring American women to health.

The Splendid Recovery of Mrs. Coventry

Newark, N. J.—"The doctor said I had organic trouble and treated me for several weeks. At times I could not walk at all and I suffered with my back and legs so I often had to stay in bed. I suffered off and on for eight years. Finally I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a good medicine, and I tried it with splendid effect. I can now do my household and my washing."

I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking it to their advantage. You may use my name for a testimonial."—Mrs. THERESA COVENTRY, 75 Burnett St., Newark, N. J.

Mrs. Hunt tells how it helped her.
Detroit, Mich.—"I was in a general run-down condition, was very nervous and tired, had backache and other troubles. I suffered for several years, was not able to work at times and tried doctor's medicine with no results. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, and after taking it a short time I was much better. I am still taking it myself and giving it to my daughter, and am glad to recommend Vegetable Compound anytime."—Mrs. M. E. Hunt, 171 Davison Ave.

TREATY IN SENATE

Senator Lodge Introduces Motion for Its Consideration.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Consideration of the German peace treaty began this afternoon in the Senate. It was called up by Chairman Lodge of the Foreign Relations committee and became the first great document of its kind to be discussed in the Senate in the full light of publicity. After having the Senate act on a motion to proceed to consider the treaty, Senator Lodge presented a copy of the treaty with Austria which he said he had received from the Chicago Tribune and which President Wilson refused recently to transmit to the Senate.

There was little formality in the beginning of the real Senate contest over the treaty. Contrary to expectation, Senator Lodge made no preliminary statement and Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, proceeded to deliver a prepared address on the League of Nations. Little over half of the Senate membership was present.

TUESDAY EVENING, SEP. 16, 1919.

RECRUITING THE AMERICAN LEGION.

There really should be no necessity for the charter members of the Millions Lafayette Post No. 361, of the American Legion, having to enter upon a drive for membership.

The object and purpose of this organization ought to appeal so strongly
to the men who were in the service of their country during the world war
that they should come in a great number to become identified with the organization.

The slogan of the legion, "Lafayette Post No. 361," is a slogan of the spirit which the men served in war-time that they should be glad and willing to sustain the same
relation to each other in respect to the duties and obligations of peacetime.

If there be disinclination to take membership now it is perhaps due, in part, to the fact that it is too soon
after the return to civil life for the returned service men to feel the call
of a renewed comradeship as they will begin to feel it in later years. This has been the experience of the Grand Army and the Spanish-American veterans. In the earlier years of these organizations the growth in membership
was comparatively slow, but as
the years have receded from the period when the veterans shared together the hardships of the camp,
march and battlefield, there has been
a strengthening of the ties and there has been a growing desire to become more closely associated again. Those who have most recently earned the title of veteran will no doubt have a similar experience.

With some of them there is a wish
to put out of mind everything that
will recall the experience overseas,
hence the reluctance to have a part
in gatherings such as will afford opportunity to revive memories, some of which may be unpleasant.

But the reasons enumerated should not serve to cause any veteran to withhold his membership from the legion. The American Legion has a greater work to do than to recall the experience of those who constitute its membership, and that work cannot be done quietly and by any other organization. It can only be accomplished by the American Legion.

It is an active agency for the promotion of the welfare of American veterans. It needs the cooperation of every man who is entitled to take membership in it. The social, recreational and other features incident to the gathering of the members will be naturally incident to and will develop
as time passes. These features of a co-association together will acquire a richness as years are added
to the life of its members that will be accounted as much a charm as membership will be a privilege.

To have a part in the great work
of the legion will be no less a certificate
of good citizenship than an honorable discharge from the Army, Navy or Marine Corps is an evidence of having faithfully and loyally served therein.

THE REAL CASE OF H. C. L.

An investigator who undertook to ascertain the real cause of the high cost of living, reports having been given the following information:

The retailer is gouging the public.
High prices are ruining the retailer.

The commission men and jobbers are responsible for high prices.

The high prices could be attributed to handling by commission men and jobbers.

The packers are robbing the people.
The packers' profits are astronomical.

Supply and demand govern cost.
Supply and demand have everything
to do with cost.

The farmers are responsible for the cost of living.

The farmers are barely getting interest on their investments.

From these clear statements almost anybody ought to be able to figure
the matter out to their complete satisfaction.

Connellsville can get along very well
without the aid of the gambling
house known from Pittsburgh as Boston. It can get along even better without such an establishment. By all means let the fight be turned on
the well as on others of like character
but less widely known.

No Republican in any part of the city
can now tell a Republican from a Democrat with being a resident of a Democratic ward.

Of the court officers who have made
recipients of the "Irish" money from an "acquainted" man's daughter none
could have accepted the mark of appreciation and gratitude with more grace and dignity and without of personal satisfaction, also, than Court Clerk Captain Charles M. Fee.

The stake in crap games are keeping
near with other high living costs.

The Democrats will nominate a ticket
today merely as a matter of form,
not with the hope or expectation of
electing any part of it.

It is to laugh when considering the amateurish policies being essayed by
the self-appointed publicity agencies
of the be-fuddled local Democratic leaders.

Evidently the Mexican bandits are feeling the pinch of H. C. L. the price of ransom for Americans having gone
up to $6,000 in gold.

Getting Back To Civil Life

Washington Observer.

At the public meeting, held under the auspices of the local branch of the American Legion, Lieutenant Colonel Edward Martin, of Waynesburg,
former leader of the 110th Infantry on
the fighting front in Europe, urged
the returned soldiers to get back to their old jobs just as soon as possible,
or if their old jobs were not ready for them to get some other position.

Colonel Martin saw much of the boys as soldiers. He saw them in the campaigns and training camps in this country, in the camps and in the trenches in Europe and under all kinds of circumstances and under all conditions on and off the field of battle. He saw how they acted, under fire and in the most trying times and
he knows the kind of a boy the average American is. And he pays high tribute to him.

The American soldier, according to Colonel Martin, would go anywhere
that he was ordered to go and his enthusiasm and eagerness to beat the Germans, made discipline comparatively easy for the officers.

Colonel Martin was regarded everywhere in army circles as a splendid leader of men because he insisted on his men being fit. And while some may have at times felt that he was too
strict, he realized that the work to be done for America required the highest
sort of physical and mental preparation and the men under Colonel Martin were, as a whole, fine men, fitted
and disciplined for service.

Now Colonel Martin wants these same boys to turn out just as good citizens as they were soldiers, to be fitted to do their task in the world,
to take their place as citizens and
make good to be producers and not
consumers; public spirited and not fault-finders, men who are always 100 per cent Americans, ready to do as much
for their country in times of peace as they were eager and ready to do in times of war.

This is the kind of citizenship this country needs today. It needs the same spirit that won for us the war.
And the more than four million boys
who were in the service can be of tremendous influence in this country
today if they stick together, if they
cooperate; if they have the same spirit
they showed while in the service of their country.

As a leader of these men in war and
one who appreciates the splendid work which these fighting boys of our day did, Colonel Martin naturally wishes to see them occupy the place
they are entitled to in civil life and
which their qualifications fit them for.
All of us feel this way, too, we are sure. These boys can be of tremendous value to America right now as they were a year ago in that great offensive in the Argonne. But their first duty is to get into some place in the active life of their home communities and simply do their duty as citizens—ready to fight to overthrow
all that is evil and bad and to cour-ageously stand up for all that is good
and decent.

The Next Peace Makers.

New York Herald.

Some time or other, at the close of a great war, the nations might try the experiment of having the peace treaty
made by the men who did things half the time. They would say things that would save time.

There are a few names that are as indisputably associated with Connellsville
coke and the coke region as the product of the region is associated with
the success of the steel industry.

Among the pioneers "Little Jim"
Cochran was known far and wide for his tenacity in sticking to coke manufacture under the difficulties of early
day conditions.

The pioneer of the Upper Connellsville
region was the late Mathias Saxman, whose enterprises live after him; the man responsible for the development of the Greensburg-Connellsville coke region was the late Colonel George F. Huff, whose interests are still among the most important in the district. Nearer home we have the Henry Clay Frick interests in the Connellsville region, and the same position these pioneers occupy in their respective districts belonged to J. P.

Brennen in the Lower Connellsville region. For while Mr. Brennen was not, perhaps the discoverer of the Klondyke or Lower Connellsville region, it was upon his certification
that its coal would make standard Connellsville coke that the first big development was made that shortly
established the district's reputation
and has since made it the heaviest producer of tonnage of any of the various Connellsville districts.

J. P. Brennen was an Allegheny county boy and is proud of it. His schooling and early training were received in his native county, but since
first engaging in business his every
interest was centered in the Connellsville coke region. His experience
was a practical and extensive one covering every part of the field, but it was to the Lower Connellsville region that he pinned his faith.

For many years he had been field
manager for the McClure Coke company, one of the pioneer coke manufacturers of the Connellsville region,
and he remained in charge of that
company's operations until its absorption by the H. C. Frick Coke company in 1895.

Shortly after that he went west
where for some time he was employed in Oklahoma, in locating coal land for the old Pittsburgh, Kansas and Gulf
railroad. In those days the country was part of the Indian Territory and it was a wild, open life. After accomplishing good work for the railroad company in the west, he returned to Pennsylvania and Scottsdale and shortly after was engaged by Herbert DuPuy of Pittsburgh, and the late J.
H. Hillman, to make an examination
and report on the coking qualities of some 6,000 acres of coal land in the then almost unknown Lower Connellsville region, known locally as the Klondyke district. The result of Mr.
Brennen's favorable report in which
he stated without reservation that the coal would make as good a coke as
the standard Connellsville coke, was the sale of the tract to the Federal Steel company and the organization of the Eureka Fuel company, with Mr.
Brennen as general manager of development and operations.

An indefatigable worker and a man
of strong physique, determination
and energy, he found here an opportunity for his talents and prosecuted
work so energetically and successfully
that plants at Footedale, Buntington
and Leckypore were completed and placed in operation. The plants are today among the heaviest producers in the region and more than justified Mr.
Brennen's confidence in them.

In 1901, shortly after their completion, they were taken over by the United States Steel Corporation, which H. C. Frick Coke company being its fuel subsidiary and the plants were
at once merged with those of the various Frick interests.

The next large development work undertaken by Mr. Brennen was for the Sharon Steel company at the Ron-
co plant, which was built entirely under Mr. Brennen's supervision, and which suffered the fate of the previous developments and operations, being absorbed by the H. C. Frick Coke company, representing the United States Steel Corporation which seems to have developed a fondness for plants
erected under the supervision of J.
P. Brennen.

After leaving the Sharon Steel company in 1904, he was induced by Charles Donnelly, president of the Pittsburgh & Terminal Coal company,
and the West Side Belt Railroad, running from Clairton to Saw Mill Run,
to accept a position as assistant to the president, Austin King, at that time being superintendent in charge
of the development of seven large coal mines owned to compete with the Pittsburgh Coal company. A few months later Mr. King resigned and Mr. Brennen was made general manager of operations and retained his former important position as assistant to the president.

Within two years under his direction
the properties had become developed
to a capacity of 2,000 tons daily or a total of 14,000 tons daily for the seven mines. About that time George Gould, president of the Wabash railroad, was building his railroad, would have had no connections with the large industries and mines from which to draw traffic. Negotiations were begun which terminated in the purchase of the very valuable property of the Pittsburgh & Terminal Coal company
and the West Side Belt railroad, the Gould interests paying for the same about $10,000,000. Mr. Brennen in his position necessarily had full charge of negotiations with the Wabash railroad and George Gould
above stated.

For a year following this big transaction Mr. Brennen was retained by the Wabash interests in a consulting capacity, in the meantime associated with J. V. Thompson and Charles Donnelly, he commenced the development of a large tract of coal in the Lower Connellsville region, building
and completely equipping the Thompson Nos. 1 and 2 plants of the Thompson-Connellsville Coke Co., of which he was president until the early part of the present year, when the enterprise passed to the Hillman interests
and at which time Mr. Brennen retired from active participation in the coke industry.

Associated with Herbert DuPuy, the Hillman interests and John C. Neff, of Pittsburgh, he was interested in the Connellsville Central Coke company,
operating the Herbert works and the Low Phos works.

In 1911 Mr. Brennen was a leading spirit in the formation and organization of the Producers' Coke company,
established for the purpose of doing a coke brokerage business direct with coke manufacturers who were members of the company. It being Mr.
Brennen's idea that if coke must be sold through a broker or agent it could best be done through one representing the producers direct. That his theory was a correct and practical one is best attested by the success that has attended the formation
of the company, which now representa-

as selling agent a majority of the leading independent merchant coke
operators of the region. Mr. Brennen
was president of the company.

One of Mr. Brennen's latest activities was the formation with others
some four years ago of the Connellsville
Coal Traffic Association, made up
by a number of the leading independent merchant producers of the region, to bring about an adjustment
of rates on by-product coal from this region. Up to that time the entire Connellsville region had a differential
of 15 cents a ton against it as compared with the Pittsburgh district, the Westmoreland fields and the Fairmont
region to the south.

The matter was taken up with the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the outcome of which was the differential was removed in all cases except to the Youngstown, Ohio,
district.

The Connellsville Coal Traffic Association accomplished all it intended and the result was a great victory
for the region in dollars and cents,
practically adding 15 cents to the value
of every ton of coal mined and shipped in the district covered.

While so extensively engaged in the coal and coke interests of the region,
Mr. Brennen was also alive to the financial requirements of the community and was a director in the First National Bank of Scottsdale, the second largest bank in Westmoreland county
with resources of over three and a half million dollars. He was also a director in the Scottsdale Savings & Trust company and had varied and extensive interests in other lines.

As a loyal citizen and public spirited man of affairs, Scottsdale and the entire region had no more representative man than J. P. Brennen, and his influence for good has been felt in his home town, Westmoreland county
and the Connellsville region.

THE PILLOW FIGHT.

Last night we went on up to bed.
And soon a racket overhead
Told us beyond the slightest doubt
Just what those youngsters were about:

Above the rattled chandeliers,
While shrieks of laughter filled our
ears;

A picture tumbled from its hook,
And all the parlor windows shook.
And mother said in great dismay:
"Go up and stop them right away!"
I told them just the other night
I'd not allow a pillow fight.

I saw upstairs like one intent
On stopping children mischief bent,
And as I neared the battle place,
A pillow struck me in the face;
I made a grab for it, and lo,
Across my back I got a blow;
It seemed to me for weeks and weeks
I hadn't heard such merry shrieks.

As those which followed on the third
When I received from hating third
"Oh," said I, "just wait a bit,
I think I'll take a hand in it."

And so, although the pace was hot,
I saw the furthest feat I got.
I'll say those little tykes were det-
They struck at me from right and left.
They struck at me behind, before,
Once had me sprawling on the floor;
And when they had me out of breath,
I thought they'd laid themselves to death.

And when at last the war was done,
We all had had a lot of fun.
It was a corking pillow fight,
I hope we have our every right.

HE WON'T DROP DEAD ANY MORE

"My husband suffered terribly from stomach and liver trouble, which caused such bloating of gas as to seriously affect his heart. Doctors warned him that he might drop dead at any time from this trouble. A friend in Cleveland advised him to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking it, four months ago, he is feeling like a young man again. All his friends are surprised at his appearance." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Adv.

ROSH HOSHANAH

September 25 Date of Important Jewish Holiday.

On Thursday, September 25, the Jews will celebrate the festival of the New Year, or Rosh Hashanah. Religious services ushering in the year 5696 will be held on that day in all the synagogues of the world. The holiday commences at sundown Wednesday evening, September 24, and ends at sundown the following day. Orthodox Jews, however, observe two days.

The festival is distinguished by the blowing of the Shofar or ram's horn. In addition to its joyous and optimistic character, it is one of great solemnity and sacredness. On Rosh Hashanah the worshippers recall to mind the misdeeds of the past year with a view to consecrating themselves to a nobler life during the years to come. The religious service which marks the observance of the holy day emphasizes that the door to improvement and betterment is constantly open.

The New Year is the beginning of the most sacred of the Jewish holiday seasons. It is the first of the Ten Days of Penitence, culminating in the Day of Atonement, the holiest and most sacred days in the Jewish calendar. A few days after the Day of Atonement, the Feast of Succoth or Tabernacles is celebrated during a period of eight days, in commemoration of the ancient Palestinian harvest festival and of the wanderings of the Israelites through the wilderness.

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so. NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs. It promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

MANAGER BILL DONOVAN DECLARES THAT FORMER BALL PLAYERS FAIL AS UMPIRES

Bill Donovan and Some Major League Umpires.

Bill Donovan, now managing the Jersey City team, has something to say about umpires. Among his observations are the following points:

"The ex-player is a bad umpire because he is always figuring plays out before they are completed. He knows what ought to happen on certain situations. And he makes up his mind in advance on his decisions."

"Is Thinking Ahead." "He cannot help this. A player is always thinking ahead of the play. This is so even as he is sitting on the bench watching the game."

"When a veteran player gets to be an umpire, therefore, he cannot be expected to change his complete baseball thinking process. He can not do so. And he is invariably a bad umpire."

"It is a mistake to make umpires out of veteran players. Young men should be secured. When they get on in years they should be replaced as ball players are."

"Umpiring is mediocre." "Under the present scheme of things the umpiring in the major leagues is mediocre. I'll bet there are not five umpires of the combined staffs of the National and American leagues who can read a newspaper without wearing eye-glasses."

"He cannot help this. A player is always thinking ahead of the play. This is so even as he is sitting on the bench watching the game."

FOIL: BIG GAMBLING CLIQUE

Secretary Bobby Quinn Uses Novel Plan to Break Up Mob Crowd in Wing of Grandstand.

Bobby Quinn, secretary of the St. Louis Browns, found a way to break up groups of gamblers who were wont to congregate along the right field wing of the grandstand and ply their nefarious trade in open defiance of the police. Quinn called in the municipal authorities, but got no satisfaction. He employed private agencies, but still the waging went on. Finally he went among the men himself and tried to break up the groups that obstructed the passageway. Finally he hit upon a plan that caused the gamblers to howl to heaven. He strung a series of signs along the grandstand. That did more than all the cops in the world. One may walk in comfort through the St. Louis stand now without hearing the hoarse and howl of the short ends.

PRAISE FOR FRED HOFFMAN

Yankee's New Backstop, Secured from St. Paul, Expected to Star With Huggins.

Although he hasn't yet had an opportunity to unveil his wares, Fred Hoffman, the Yankee's new catch from the St. Paul club, is said to be one of the most promising backstops dug up in the minors in many a day. Hoffman joined the Yanks recently and has only done light work, such as warming up pitchers. Hoffman made a big hit with St. Paul, where Mike Kelley, the manager, saw in him a potential star and shipped him forward to his friend, Miller Huggins.

FANS ATTACK EVANS, THINKING HE'S NALLIN

Billy Evans, well-known umpire, was the target for a pop-bottle shower in Cleveland. The bottles flew from the first-base bleachers following a decision Evans made disastrous to the Cleveland team. And Evans' home is in Cleveland, too.

Chief Folger, of the league park police stepped to the vicinity of the pop-bottle hurlers and said:

"That was a cowardly act, and the men who threw those bottles wouldn't have nerve to meet Billy Evans face to face."

"Oh, was that Evans?" one of the fans yelled. "We thought it was Nallin."

NOTES OF THE DIAMOND

Perkins is getting to be a whale of a hitter.

Fewster is proving a first-class lead-off man.

Eddie Cicotte has a world of confidence in his ability.

Rumors have it that John McGraw is trying to get Rogers Hornsby from St. Louis.

Cincinnati is steamed to a million. If Pat Moran cops he is a miracle man. If he blows he is a mackerel man.

Playing on the Red Sox is a tough job. A player has to be good enough to keep his job and not too good to lose it.

Now that Ed Barrow has discovered the worth of Heinie Wagner, the Red Sox are expected to show a little more speed.

Rumors float around Brooklyn that Ivan Olson is to succeed Wilbert Robinson as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers next year.

Gus Bono's no-hit game for Shreveport was the first of the season in the Texas league. The San Antonio Aces were his victims.

Mario De Vito, of Brown university fame, has become a Yankee. He has returned from overseas. He is a right-handed pitcher.

If there is a slower pair of pitchers in the American league than George Erickson and Elmer Myers, their names cannot be recalled.

Club fans have become exceptionally tough lately. Umpires cannot make a close decision without being greeted with a shower of pop bottles.

Manager McGraw of the Glaziers is charged with having said that he was glad to get out of the town of the Huns when he left Cincinnati.

They made a mistake with reference to Mr. Regan. He should be named Pinnegan.

Bigbee of Pittsburgh, just a fair outfielder, is the leading base stealer in the National league.

There are many fans pulling for the Cincinnati Reds to win the pennant in the National league.

MOTOR TRANSPORT UNIT

Pitt. to Have Section of Reserve Officers Corps.

(Special to The Courier.)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—The University of Pittsburgh has been designated by army officials at Washington as one of the colleges which will have a motor transport unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps during the current school year. The army men have designated the Pitt School of Engineering as the institution which will largely determine the curriculum, the organization, and the methods which schools, having similar transport units, will follow. A professor at the School of Engineering will be designated by the War Department to write the text books for the course and to supervise in general the method of instruction at the many similar institutions throughout the country. The University of Pittsburgh has been chosen for this important work owing to its signal success in training auto mechanics and motor transport soldiers during the period of the war.

Son at Duncan Home.

Mrs. Duncan was formerly Miss Bertha DeHaven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob DeHaven of Ninth street, West Side, and was at one time employed at Kobacker's store. Mr. Duncan is assistant mine foreman at the Collier mine. The family is now composed of a boy and a girl.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy many times during the past four years," writes H. L. Widger, Earlville, N. Y. "I have been subject to frequent attacks of diarrhoea, and this remedy always affords me immediate relief." When troubled with diarrhoea give it a trial. It has a great reputation for its cures.

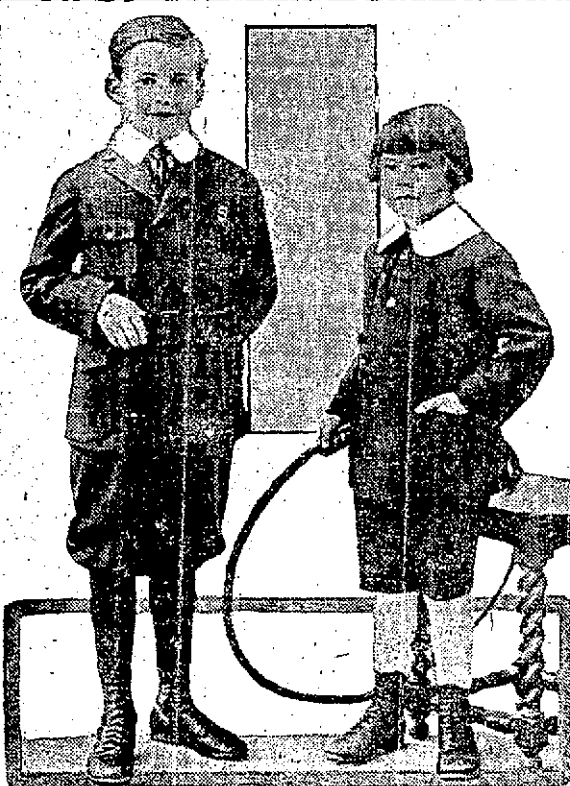

A Correction.

Through an error in yesterday's advertisement of the Zimmerman-Wild store, the word Garland was used instead of Glenwood in referring to the Glenwood Gold Medal Range.

A Nine-Pound Son.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Laughrey of Dawson are receiving congratulations on the birth of a nine-pound son last Friday. There are now four girls and five boys in the family.

Outfitting Boys for School

The average small boy, apparently gives little thought as to wherewithal he shall be clothed—clothes being the least of his troubles. But if any fond mother has visions of decking him out in things that differ much from the clothes worn by his average, everyday school fellow, she might as well banish them first as last. Men and boys are less independent in the matter of clothes than women and girls are. This is because they come in, for a lot of frank Hildegarde from their fellows the minute they do anything unusual in the way of dressing.

Here are two suits for school boys—the kind they like. They are made of good qualities of woolen goods with two pairs of knickerbockers to each suit and boast certain small finishing touches that will please their wearers, although they are so conspicuous that one's attention must be called to them. For instance the patch pockets on the coat for the larger boy have flaps that button down. This is an advantage that the rough-and-tumble youngster will gleat over since he will not lose his treasures, no matter what position the fortunes of war may place his anatomy in. Also a buckle, that on the cloth belt, for some reason, has charms for the small boy, that are lasting. This suit is made of dark woolen goods, soft finish and with an indistinct pin stripe. With a stiff turn-down collar and gray-plaid tie, the boy looks very trim and well set up in it.

For the smaller boy a plain wool goods is used to make straight, short pants and a moderately long coat. This is cut with plaits at each side, and the body is set onto a yoke. A belt of the material slips through slides of it set on and fastened with two buttons at the front to make assurance doubly sure. He may put one fastening out of commission, but hardly two of them at the same time. The turn-down collar is finished off for him with a narrow tie with tasseled ends. He may consider this a little extreme in style and manage to dispense with the tassels.

The Devil's Own

A Romance of the Black Hawk War

By Randall Parrish

"It is my guess," I said, "that their only thought was to get away before the crime was discovered. Rene, would you be afraid to remain here alone for a little while?"

She glanced about into the gloom of the surrounding woods, her hesitancy answering me.

"It is not a pleasant prospect I admit, but there is no possible danger. Kirby has gone, beyond all question, out I wish to learn if I can the direction he has taken. All this must have happened only a short time ago—while we were at the cabin. The keelboat can scarcely be entirely out of sight yet on either river if we could only find a place to offer us a wide view."

"But could I not go with you?"

"Hardly with me, for I intend to switch the creek and try to reach the point at the mouth of the Illinois, from where I can see up and down the Mississippi. I am going to send Sam back through the woods there and have him climb that ridge. From the top he ought to have a good view up the valley of the Illinois. I suppose you might go with him."

"Ah, sure wish you would, missus," broke in the negro pleadingly. "Ah, ain't I perfectly ferried for ter go 'lone, but Ah's an ol' man an' Ah reckon as how a young gal was likely ter see me'n Ah wud." "Fears like Ah's done los'n my glasses."

A faint smile lighted up her face—a mere glimmer of a smile.

"Yes, Sam, I'll go," she said, glancing up into my eyes and holding out her hand. "You wish me to, do you not?"

"I think it will be fully as well. You still remember the pistol?"

She nodded her response, and without delaying my departure longer I lowered myself into the water and swam toward the opposite shore, creeping forth amid a tangle of roots and immediately disappearing in the underbrush. I found a rough passage for the first few rods, being obliged to almost tear a way through the close growth and unable to see a yard in advance. But this ended suddenly at the edge of the sand flat, with the converging waters of the two rivers visible just beyond. My view from here was narrowed, however, by high ridges on both sides, and with a desire not to expose myself to any chance eye, I followed the line of forest until able to climb the slope, and thus attain the crest of the bluff.

From this vantage point the view was extensive, both up and down the big river, as well as across to the opposite bank. Along that entire surface but three objects met my gaze—a small island, green with trees, seemingly anchored just beyond the mouth of the Illinois; a lumbering barge at almost opposite end, clearly outlined against the distant shore, and barely moving with the current; and far away below a thin smudge of smoke, arising from behind a headland, as though curling upward from the stack of some steamer. I felt no doubt but what this was the stolen keelboat, speeding toward St. Louis.

"This struck me as the most reasonable course to pursue—to work our way quietly up the Illinois by night, keeping close in shore to avoid any passing steamer, until we arrived close to Beardstown. Undoubtedly there were blacks in the town, both slaves and free negroes, with whom Sam could easily establish an acquaintance. By this means we would soon be able to identify that particular prisoner into whose care I hoped to confide Rene. Of course the girl might refuse to enter into the game, might decline to assume the role assigned her, however innocent I intended it to be. Indeed, I felt convinced she would meet the suggestion with indignation. But why worry about that now? Let this be kept as a last resort. There was no necessity for me to even mention this part of my plan until after our approach to Beardstown; then the necessity of our going forward with it might be so apparent she could not refuse to carry on her part. With this point settled in my own mind I felt ready to rejoin the others.

I must have been absent in the neighborhood of two hours, and they

To Aid Fellow Sufferers James Duffy Tells How Ten-Herbs Relieved Him.

Little do we realize to what extent a seemingly slight illness might lead to if neglected.

Take the case of Mr. James Duffy, of No. 747 Reedsdale street, Pittsburg, Pa., a boiler-maker by trade, and a well known member of the union. He has a host of friends in that city, having been a police officer in the first ward for a number of years. He states:

"For a number of years I have had catarrh of the stomach and was in constant pain, had shortness of breath, acidity of the stomach, headaches, dizzy spells and severe pains around my heart, caused by gas in my system; I was always constipated, my liver was torpid and sluggish, I could never sleep at night, and at times I could scarcely get my breath. I had taken a good many different medicines without any relief until I heard of Ten-Herbs and started to take it. Now I am glad to say I have no more indigestion—have a good appetite, sleep fine and am not constipated. I feel that by taking Ten-Herbs in time I avoided a serious illness, as I was gradually getting worse all the time. I can't praise Ten-Herbs enough."

Ten-Herbs, the new herbal stomach, liver and kidney remedy, as perhaps doing more to relieve ill of this nature than any other preparation. It is the logical remedy to take, because being made of herbs, roots, bark and berries, it is pure and harmless, and may be taken by old and young. Coming from mother earth it is nature's own remedy—the kind our forefathers used to take.

and not to be swept away. I was able to realize instantly what had occurred. I had been mistaken; Kirby had not fled down the river; instead he had craftily waited this chance to attack as at a disadvantage. Convinced that we would decide to make use of the rowboat, which he had left uninjured for that very purpose, and that we would venture forth just so soon as the night became dark enough, he had hidden the stolen craft in some covert along shore to await our coming. Then he sprang on us, as the tiger springs on his prey. He had calculated well, for the blunt prow of the speeding keelboat had struck us squarely, crushing in the sides of our frail craft and flinging me headlong.

What had been the fate of the others I could not for the moment determine. The darkness shadowed everything, the bulk of the keelboat alone appearing in the distance, and that shapelessly outlined. The craft bore no light, and had it not been for a voice speaking I doubt if I could have located even that. The rowboat could not be distinguished—it must have sunk, or else drifted away, a helpless wreck. The first sound my ears caught, echoing across the water, was an oath, and a question: "By—! a good job; do you see that fellow anywhere?"

"Now," the response a mere growl. "He's a goner, I reckon; never knowed what hit him, jedgin' from the way he upended it."

"Well, then he isn't likely to bother us any more. Suppose he was the white man?"

"Sure he was; it was the nigger who was up ahead. We hit him, an' he dropped in 'tween their boats, an' went down like a stone. He never yeeped but just once, when I fust gripped their girl. I don't reckon as she was hurt at all, leastwise I never stimed fer ter hurt her none."

"Has she said anything?"

"Not a d—d twit'er, maybe she's fainted. I dunno, but that's the way females do. What shall I do with the bird, Kirby?"

"Oh, hold on to her there awhile, long as she's quiet. I'm going to try the steam again, and get outside into the big river. He—! man, but this hasn't been such a bad night's work."

The steam began to hiss, settling swiftly into a rhythmic chugging, as the revolving wheel began to churn up the water astern. Confident of being safely hidden by the darkness, I permitted the current to bear me downward, my muscles aching painfully from the struggle, and with no other thought in my mind except to keep well out of sight of the occupants of the boat. To be perceived by them and overtake in the water meant certain death, while if they came to believe that I had actually sunk beneath the surface, some future carelessness on their part might yield me an unexpected opportunity to serve Rene. The few words overheard had made sufficiently plain the situation. Poor Sam had already found freedom in death, crushed between the two colliding boats, but the girl had been grasped in time and hauled unhurt aboard the heavier craft. This had been the object of the attack—to gain possession of her. Very evidently I had not been seen closely enough to be recognized by Kirby. In a measure this afforded me a decided advantage, provided we ever encountered each other again—and I meant that we should. The account between us was not closed by this incident; far from it. There in that black water, struggling to keep afloat, while being swept resistlessly out into the river, with no immediate object before me except to remain concealed by the veil of darkness, I resolved solemnly to myself that this affair should never end until it was ended right. In that moment of decision I cared not at all for Rene Beauchamp's drop of negro blood, nor for the fact that she was a slave in her master's hands. To my mind she was but a woman, a sweet, lovable, girlish woman, in the untrained power of a brute, and dependent alone on me for rescue. That was enough; I cared for nothing more.

With silent strokes I waited patiently until the steady chugging of the engine grew faint in the distance; and then finally ceased entirely.

Uncertain which way to turn and conscious of a strange insatiate, I made no struggle to reach land but permitted myself to be borne downward in the grip of the water. Suddenly something drifted against my body, a black, ill-defined object, tossing about on the swell of the waves, and instinctively I grasped at it, recognizing instantly the shell of our wrecked boat. It was all awash, a great hole stove in its side well forward, and so filled with water the added weight of my body would have sunk it instantly. Yet the thing remained buoyant enough to float, and I clung to its stern thankful even for this slight help.

There was no occasion for fear, although I became aware that the sweep of the current was steadily bearing us farther out toward the center of the broad stream, and soon felt convinced that escape from my predicament would be impossible until after daylight. The struggle to keep afloat was no longer necessary, and my head sank in relief on the hands gripping at the boat's stern while we floated silently on through the black mystery.

Suddenly the wrecked boat's bow grated against something immovable, then became fixed, the stern swinging slowly about, until it also caught, and I could feel the full volume of down-pouring water against my body. The blindly floating boat had drifted upon a snag, seemingly the major portion of a tree, now held by some spit of sand. I struggled vainly in an attempt to release the grip which held us, but the force of the current had securely wedged the boat's bow beneath a limb, a bare leafless bough, making all my efforts useless. I found a submerged branch on which to stand, gripped the boat desperately to prevent being swept away, and waited for the dawn.

It seemed a long while coming, and never did man gaze on a more dismal, ghastly scene than was revealed to me by those first gray gleams dimly showing in the far east. All about stretched utter desolation; wherever my eyes turned the vista was the same—a wide stretch of restless brown water surging and leaping past, bounded by low-lying shores, forlorn and deserted. How far I had aimlessly drifted downstream during the night was a mere matter of conjecture. I possessed no knowledge of where I was. Each bank of the river appeared about equally bare and desolate, entirely devoid of promise. However, I chose the west shore for my experiment, as the current seemed less strong in that direction, and was about to plunge in, determined to fight a way across, when my eyes suddenly detected a faint wreath of smoke curling up into the pale sky above a headland far to the southward. As I stared at this it became black and distinct, tossed about in the wind. I watched intently clinging to my support, scarcely trusting my eyesight, while that first wisp deepened into a cloud, advancing slowly toward me. There was no longer doubt of what it was—unquestionably some steamer was pushing its course upstream. Even before my ears could detect the far-off chug of the engine the boat itself rounded the sharp point of the headland and came toward full view, heading out toward the middle of the river in a search for deeper water.

It was an unusually large steamboat for those days, a lower river packet, I guessed, with two funnels painted yellow and a high pilot house surmounted by a huge brass auger. At first, approaching me, how on I could perceive but little of its dimensions, nor gain clear view of the decks, but when it veered slightly these were revealed, and I had a glimpse of a few figures grouped forward, the great wheel astern splashing the water, and

The Help You Want on Washday

While lifting boilers, struggling with tubs and straining over the scrubboard on washdays, haven't you often yearned for relief—some economical and convenient means of having your family washing done?

Our Family Laundry Service will appeal to you if you have.

It is something different from the usual laundry service—and its cost is very moderate.

When our driver brings us your family bundle, we wash everything, using from nine to twelve changes of pure, soft water and suds of mild white soap. We dry the clothes without wringing or flapping on the line—a spin in our magic basket and a few minutes in a gentle breeze of warm, clean air, does it.

Then we iron the flat pieces, like the bed clothes and table linens. Such other pieces as require it, we starch.

Finally, we wrap them all in a package and deliver them to you immaculate—leaving only a small amount of the ironing for you to do yourself.

Could anything be simpler? All of the heaviest and most unpleasant work of washday is done by us. Only the lightest duties are left to you.

You will be pleasantly surprised, too, at the reasonableness of the cost.

But more important still, you will find immense relief in having no smelly Mondays to live through, no irksome labor over the scrubboard and no weekly troubles with clothes lines and soot.

If you will telephone, write or visit us, we will be glad to tell you more about this service. Or better, leave us your address and we will have our driver call at once for your family bundle.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the doubts and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common but miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs almost nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Arnicin at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work, but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

SALOME
WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

THE SOISSON.

"SALOME."—With Theda Bara as the notorious ward of Herod, celebrated in song and story, will be present tomorrow and Thursday. General attention was first directed to this Scriptural siren, as transplanted to the stage, when Richard Strauss' grand opera of that name, with Mary Garden in the title role, was banned at the Metropolitan Opera House after its first performance.

Miss Bara's proven proficiency as a portrayor of superwomen warrants the assumption that in the character of Salome she, above all others, who interpreted the role in one guise or another, reveals the true psychology of this strange creature of history. A further virtue, it is pointed out, is that no undue liberties have been taken with the story for theatrical effect. In the main, the account given by the great Jewish historian, has been faithfully followed.

J. Gordon Edwards, under whose direction the screen spectacle was produced, put six months of the hardest kind of concentration on "Salome." He excelled himself in the effective reproduction of ancient architecture, which characterized his previous effort, "Cleopatra." It is stated, in the Jerusalem of King Herod's day he discovered opportunities for even more sumptuous settings, and the amazing symmetry, "color," stateliness, simplicity and harmonious grouping of ensemble pictures are not merely pleasing to the eye, but lend dignity and artistic background to the great human and religious tragedy that is enacted.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE MICROBE."—The latest Metro production, "Gaturing," Viola Dana, is today's principal attraction. This picture was adapted from the popular story of the same name by Henry Aldrich, published in "All-Story Magazine," and is the dramatic and heart-rending story of "The Microbe," a girl of the New York slums who is rescued from her unsavory surroundings by a young author in search of local color.

Her quick wit and winsome personality, coupled with the ease with which she acquires polish and refinement in her new environment, quickens his interest in her—an interest which soon develops into something deeper. In fact, De Witt finds himself fast falling in love with his protegee.

This state of affairs is also evident to Judith Winthrop, a young widow whose matrimonial designs center on the author. Jealousy leads her to treachery and deceit and the Microbe is forced to leave the home she has grown to love.

Tomorrow, "Just Squaw," an interesting production featuring an all star cast will be shown.

THE SOISSON.

"THE PAINTED WORLD."—One of the most tensely and fascinating dramas ever screened, with Anita Stewart, the beautiful and celebrated actress, in a charming role, is being presented today.

The story was written by Jacques Futrell, master-creator of cinema fiction, who perished in the Titanic disaster, and depicts the life of Yvette, to whom her mother had sworn to keep forever closed the gates of "the painted world."

Carefully brought up, the mother was to her always a woman of mystery, for whom Yvette held little of love. Grown to young womanhood, the secret of her mother's life is revealed, and in the tragedy that follows Yvette herself enters the forbidden gates where, for years her mother had reigned as "The Masked Lady of the Moulin Rouge." And at bitter cost she learns why the older woman had given at last even her life that she might be spared the life that had been hers.

Ralph Ince directed the picture, bringing to the screen every ounce of the crashing dramatic power of the
